Pavlos Photiades
President of
The Brewers of Europe

Dear Reader,

Welcome to the 2018 edition of The Brewers of Europe's annual statistical report on the state of the European beer market. I'm proud to report on yet another successful twelve months for Europe's brewers following a fourth consecutive year of growth in beer production.

Whilst consumption has stabilised after three years of growth, beer exports have been steadily increasing, hitting an all-time high that has also helped to ensure the continued buoyancy in Europe's beer market. Nearly 22% of European beer production is now exported beyond national boundaries, with one third of this beer benefitting from Europe's reputation for quality beer and being shipped to all corners of the globe.

Whilst beer production volumes are still a good way off their level prior to the economic crash nearly one decade ago, this same period has coincided with an unprecedented boom in the numbers of SMEs and new microbreweries springing up all across the continent. In one year alone, the number of breweries active in the EU grew by nearly one thousand. In the last five years the number of microbreweries has doubled, and the European Union now counts an estimated 9,500 breweries! Whilst our members from Norway, Switzerland and Turkey are also bringing a further thousand breweries to the party.

These new brewers have been helping to drive the exports that first led to the stabilisation and then the incremental growth in the European beer sector. They are also pushing all brewers to strive for even greater excellence and to innovate, meaning that beer consumers now have available to them an ever-diverse range of high quality beer brands, styles and flavours. There is also a huge amount of investment going into specialty beers, with ever better non- and lower- alcohol beers now representing around six percent of the overall European beer market.

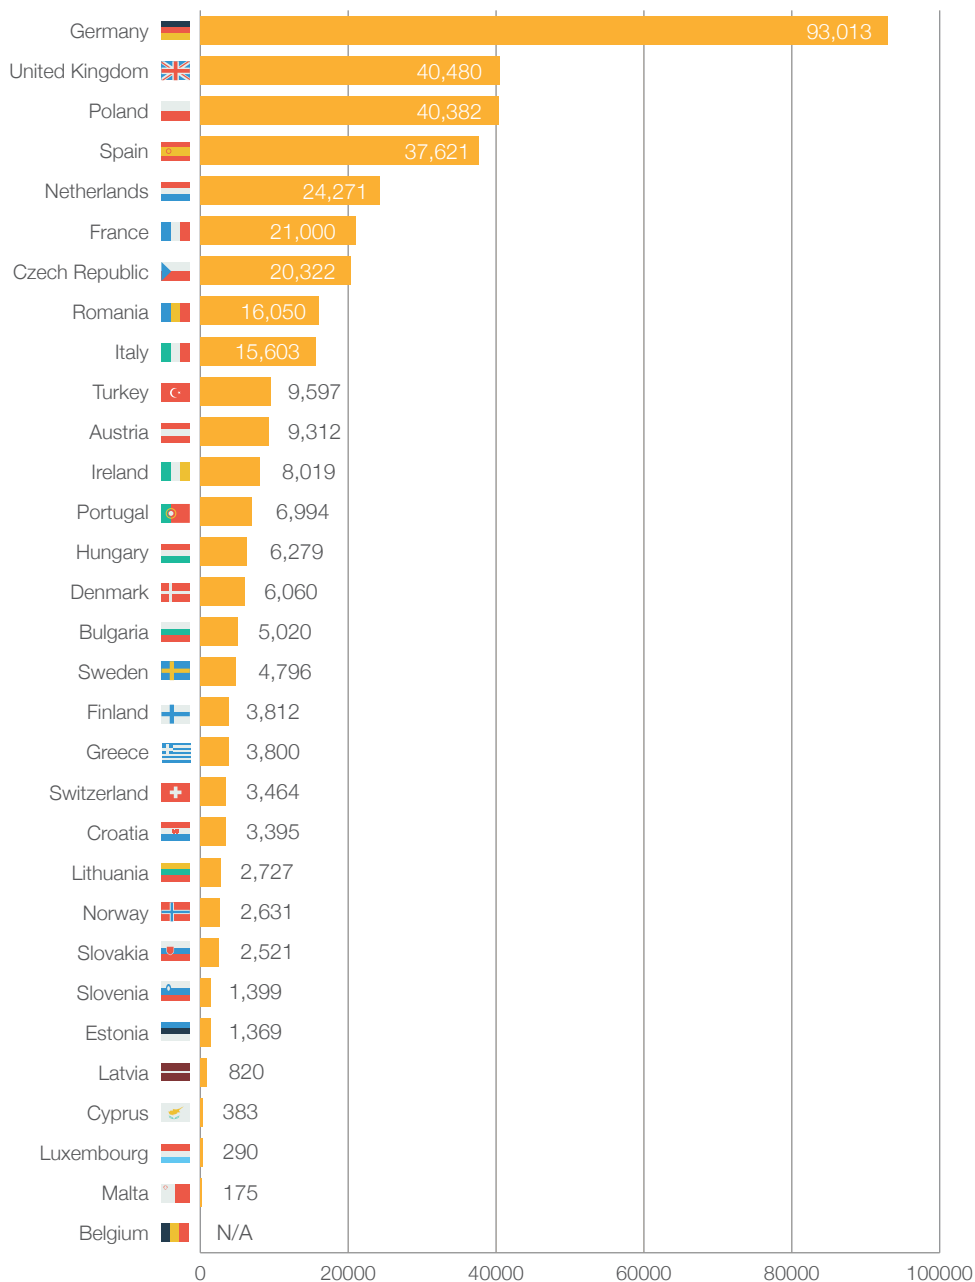

It is this expansion of the beer and brewing landscape that led this year to the first ever Brewers of Europe Forum, which brought together in Brussels 800 participants from 40 different countries over two days. After a fascinating event that attracted over 90 high level speakers and guests from the entire beer value chain, we are expecting well over a thousand people to attend next year's event in Antwerp on 3-4 June 2019 at a Forum that also integrates the European Brewing Congress. Please come along!

The Forum is part of a broader project to ensure that The Brewers of Europe further develops as the natural home to all of Europe's brewers – micro, small, medium and large. Indeed, The Brewers of Europe is in a unique position to unite, represent, defend and promote the interests of beer and of the whole European beer sector. Our latest tool - the BrewUp knowledge portal - has been designed as a service for Europe's brewers, providing them with a central European point for information, tips, data, guidance and beer business insights.

Next year is also a key milestone for the European Union, with the first European elections following the departure of one of its members. In spite of the unfortunate departure from the EU of a key Member State, we hope it will still be a good year for Europe's brewing sector, with further growth, further diversity and hopefully the founding of Europe's ten thousandth brewery! Policymakers can be sure that The Brewers of Europe will be in touch to call for a policy environment that further supports the development and prosperity of a diverse, sustainable and responsible beer sector in Europe.

Cheers!

Pavlos Photiades

METHODOLOGY

The data for the 2018 edition were mainly collated via the national brewers' associations through surveys carried out by The Brewers of Europe from 2011 until 2018.

With the received data the corresponding tables and charts have been prepared and verified with the interlocutors from different countries. Therefore, unless indicated otherwise in this or previous editions, all data comes from national brewers associations.

When data was not available through national associations other sources were used to complete as much as possible the tables. The sources used for this edition include:

- National brewers' associations data
- Eurostat

Figures contained in some tables may have been rounded and also corrected from previous editions of this publication.
